

INTELLIGENT FULFILLMENT™

Warehouse Labor Management

The right warehouse labor management program does a lot more than simply track labor productivity. It transforms your business into a performance-focused culture. It makes workers accountable for their own performance and turns supervisors into coaches and mentors. JDA leads you through this cultural transformation with a proven methodology and change management process which are supported by the industry's best technology.

Capabilities

Implementing JDA's warehouse labor management program changes the way managers and associates think about labor management. Customers go from the traditional "carrot and stick" mentality to one where everyone is focused on maximizing performance and customer service.

This is the result of a proven, step-by-step methodology for cultural transformation where everyone is accountable for the organization's success.

Business Transformation Through Labor Management

JDA identifies the gap between your current operations and industry best practices and provides a step-by-step process to transform your organization into a performance-focused culture that is motivated to achieve your corporate goals.

Change Management

A full set of consulting, communication and training services gets all levels of your organization working together for business transformation through a proven change management program.
